

Introducing Jacqueline Anne Lloyd

Jacqueline Lloyd is looking for a lecturing/research position in New Zealand or overseas.

Research and teaching interests include:

- Historical Jesus
- New Testament in its Jewish and Graeco-Roman contexts
- Archaeology

Jacqui recently completed a PhD at Otago University, Dunedin, New Zealand. She also has fifteen years of teaching experience at tertiary level. For a full CV she may be contacted at jilltkpo@gmail.com

Recent Employment

Jan 2014–Apr 2017 PhD Candidate – Otago University, New Zealand

2008–2013 Senior Lecturer – Laidlaw College, Auckland, New Zealand.

Professional duties included:

- Teaching New Testament Greek, Israel in the Time of Jesus, Biblical Interpretation, and Introduction to Old Testament.
- Designing new course materials for on-campus and distance students
- Research and Writing

Academic Achievements and Awards

2017 PhD thesis submitted – Otago University, New Zealand.

100,000 word thesis titled: “Archaeology and the Itinerant Jesus: A historical Inquiry into the Extent of Jesus’ Itinerancy in the North.”

2011 Master of Arts – Ancient History (High Distinction) – Macquarie University, Australia. Awarded the Vice-Chancellor’s Commendation for Academic Excellence.

2005 Master of Theological Studies (Distinction) – Laidlaw College, New Zealand.

1984 Diploma of Teaching (Commendation) – Auckland Teacher’s College, NZ.

Professional Contributions

Research Publications

- July 2013 "The Women who Followed Jesus: Part 1" – Stimulus 20/2
Nov 2013 "The Women who Followed Jesus: Part 2" – Stimulus 20/3

Conference Papers

- Dec 2015 "The Ethnicity of the Galileans in the First Century CE" – ANZABS (Auckland)
June 2013 "Bethsaida and Galilee in the First Century CE" – ISBL (St. Andrews, Scotland)
Dec 2012 "Bethsaida, Galilee and the Historical Jesus" – ANZABS (Auckland)
May 2012 "Excavating Bethsaida: 1987-2011" – SSEC (Sydney)
June 2011 "The Contribution of the Women in Luke 8.1-3" - ISBL (London)

Israel Study Tour

In 2011 Jacqui took a team of students and colleagues on a three week Study Tour of Israel, which included one week of excavation at Et-Tell/Bethsaida, Galilee.

